

Renée Moore

Renée Moore has worked in the bike advocacy industry for over 5 years, gaining experience in outreach, Vision Zero, community organizing with the Washington Area Bicyclist Association, and Program Manager at BikeArlington. She is passionate about introducing underserved communities to Alexandria's resources to get them biking, walking, scooting, and using the water taxi and transit more for recreation and transportation. In addition to being the Transit Specialist at the City of Alexandria, she was recently selected by Amsterdam based organization BYCS (pronounced bikes) to be the Bike Mayor for DC region. She is also involved in working with blind bicyclists, deaf bicyclists, bicyclists over 50, and African Americans who want to bike. Outside of the office, Renée enjoys cooking, swimming, and learning American Sign Language. Say hi on Twitter @gironbluebike

Renée Moore is a Transit Specialist for the City of Alexandria. Her role includes planning events and promoting the city's vast array of transportation options using online and offline methods to promote the city's events. Prior to working for the City of Alexandria, Renée owned a marketing business, Much Moore Marketing, for 7 years working with independent pharmacies showing them how to build their businesses using social media, blogging, and building client attracting websites. She enjoys cooking, biking, and learning American Sign Language. Say hi on Twitter @gironbluebike
